

We are pleased about your interest in our website and in our company. Despite careful verification of external links to third-party contents, we cannot assume any liability therefor.

We attach utmost importance to the protection of your personal data collected, processed and used in connection with your visit of our website. Your data shall be protected in accordance with statutory provisions. Hereinafter, we shall inform you of the type of data collected during your visit on our website and of the manner in which such data are used.

1. Collection and processing of data

Every access to our website and every retrieval of files saved on our website will be logged. Such logging shall be for internal system-related and statistical purposes only. The following data shall be logged: name of the retrieved file, date and time of retrieval, quantity of data transferred, report of successful retrieval, web browser and requesting domain. In addition, the IP address of the computer from which the request is made shall also be logged. Other personal data shall only be logged if you supply them voluntarily, e.g. in connection with a request or registration.

2. Use and disclosure of personal data

To the extent you provided us with your personal data, we shall use such data only to answer your requests, to fulfil any contracts concluded between you and us and for technical administration purposes. Your personal data shall not be disclosed or otherwise transferred to any third party unless you gave your prior consent or unless this is required to fulfil contracts (including but not limited to disclosure of order data to suppliers) or for invoicing purposes. You shall be entitled to revoke any such consent given at any time, however, not with retroactive effect. The recorded personal data shall be deleted if you revoke your consent to such data recording, provided such data are no longer required for their respective purpose or if such recording is inadmissible in accordance with other statutory regulations.

3. Right to demand information

Upon written request, we shall inform you of any of your personal data recorded.

Security:

We make every effort to take all technical and organisational measures to record your personal data in such a manner that they cannot be accessed by any third party. We cannot guarantee full and complete data security for communication via e-mail. Therefore, we would like to recommend that confidential information be sent by mail.